THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION

1. A station (straznica) of the W.O.P. (Polish Border Guard) is located at Trzebina (about 5 miles south of Prudnik (Neustadt) - N 50-19, E 17-35) in barracks of the former German border guard, about 50 meters from the border between Poland and Czechoslovakia. The station crew consists of 2 officers, 6 NCO's and over 40 soldiers armed partly with M.44 rifles and partly with submachine guns. They have 3 patrol dogs, 3 bicycles, and 2 horses.
2. The task of this station is to guard the border between Debniki (Eichhausen) to the west and Dytmarow (Dittersdorf) to the east. This task is carried out by day patrols, consisting of 2 men per patrol, armed with rifles and submachine guns and accompanied by a dog, and one night patrol, which remains every night from 2000 hours until dawn at a fixed spot near the Trzebina mill. In addition, there are 6 guard towers, 3 by 3 by 10 meters, equipped with telephones.
3. Adjoining W.O.P. stations are located at Debniki, consisting of about 40 men and at Dytmarow, consisting of about 50 men. Patrols sent out from Trzebina walk as far as Debniki and Dytmarow, while the patrols from these stations patrol as far as Trzebina. In this way the border is controlled twice. The patrols do not walk their beats on a regular schedule.
